Pizza driver robbed

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A 19-year-old Romulus pizza delivery driver was robbed late last Wednesday night, shortly after making a delivery to a home in the Biddle and Ronald Street area.

The driver, who resides in Belleville, told Romulus police after making the pizza delivery about 11:30 p.m., he was returning to his Merriman Road store, when a pedestrian waved him down and asked if he had any extra pizzas.

The driver told police he said he did not.

The outsider then warned the pizza employee "your back tire is going flat."

When the driver poked his head out of the window to survey the tire, the pedestrian allegedly "whacked" him on the back of the head with his fist.

He then shoved a gun against the driver's head and demanded "give me all your money," according to police reports of the incident.

The delivery man said he complied with the demand and the robber called out "thank you" and fled from the scene on foot.

The suspect was described as being about 17-20 years of age, about 6- feet-tall and weighing about 180 pounds.

Police were told he had shoulder-length blond hair and wore a Metallica T-shirt and dark shorts.

The victim sustained a bruise and swelling on his right cheek, police reported.

Accidents claim 2 lives in Romulus

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A pair of Romulus auto accidents last Thursday led to twin tragedies, as a four-year-old Taylor girl and a visiting Japanese student were fatally injured.

The traffic deaths were the eighth and ninth this year in Romulus, police reported.

The first mishap occurred shortly after 8:30 a.m. Thursday, when a 41-year-old Taylor grandmother lost control of her 1985 Ford Thunderbird as it was traveling south on Inkster Road (near Wick Road) and the vehicle struck a tree.

Following the impact with the tree, the Thunderbird bounced back onto Inkster Road, where it was struck by a passing 1991 Ford Ranger.

Police said sometime during the twin impacts, sleeping four-year-old Amanda-Ann Janice Fulton, daughter of Theresa Ann Fulton, was thrown out an open window of the car and landed in the roadway.

The young girl's body was picked up by her grandmother and rushed to an unidentified passer-by's vehicle and the man rushed the victim and grandmother to Heritage Hospital in Taylor.

After futile revival efforts, the young girl was declared dead, police said.

Jennifer Gerbert, 19, of Wayne, the operator of the Ranger, also sustained facial injuries.

Later that day, a young visiting Japanese woman was fatally hurt in a crash on Northline Road during a heavy rainstorm.

Romulus Traffic Officer Jerry Yoscovits revealed that the victim, Kimie Mantani, 25, a native of Japan, was traveling west on Northline, when the 1987 Buick Century she was driving skidded on the wet roadway and went into a side-spin.

Her vehicle was struck by a 1985 Plymouth Voyager operated by a 57-year-old Taylor male.

The Japanese motorist was initially taken to Annapolis Hospital in Wayne and then helicoptered to University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Mantani, who was residing with the Daniel and Carole Bales family of Romulus, was placed on a life support system.

The victim, a close friend of Brian Bales, was removed from the life support systems Sunday and died a short time later.

A funeral service was held Monday at the Community United Methodist Church under the direction of Rev. Dr. J.D.Landis. Her body was cremated and the ashes are being taken back to Japan.

Several eulogies were offered including one by Dan Bales, a former Romulus School Board member, and father of Brian Bales.

Bales comments were translated into Japanese for the victim's parents and friends.

Yoscovits said witnesses are being sought for both accidents.

Investigations are continuing for both accidents, Yoscovits said.

Veteran councilman keeping his eye on crime rates in city

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

This is the third in a series of six articles on local council incumbents seeking re-election this fall.

Veteran Romulus Councilman Jimmie Raspberry is proud of his career in city government which dates back to when he was selected chairman pro tem shortly after the city of Romulus was created in 1970.

Raspberry proudly claims he has lived in Romulus for over a half century coming from Detroit, following periods in Gary, Ind. and his home city of Birmingham, Ala. But the 50 years he has spent in Romulus, have been his most productive.

Raspberry said he began by being elected constable in 1955 and with that he was appointed to the Romulus Township Police Department (1955-61). And, it is that part of his career that most interests him in his 1993 campaign.

Raspberry plans to make police records, Chief Fred Dansby's priorities and the department's relationship with the community as some of the key focuses of his campaign.

While much of that campaign emphasis is yet to be developed, Raspberry said he will zero in on the fact that about one-third of the entire city budget is spent on the police department. He wants those funds linked more to community projects, Raspberry said.

"In 1961 I first ran for township trustee," Raspberry said, "and served from 1965-69. I served three terms in total."

Then when the city of Romulus was created, Raspberry said he was not only elected councilman, but was named to the post of chairman pro tem.

"I lost my re-election bid in 1973," Raspberry admits, as he ran more as an independent, in a field of candidates running on slates assigned to two of the mayoral candidates.

He continued in that position until 1985, when his wife, Cleo, was diagnosed with cancer. Because of his family health problems, Raspberry chose not to seek re-election.

His wife of 45 years died in 1986, and Raspberry then decided to seek a return to the political wars.

Raspberry once again was returned to his council seat.

The veteran councilman said housing and road improvements are two of the most critical areas needed to be addressed by the community.

"We need housing for all levels - including young families and downsizing senior citizens - as well as middle-aged Americans, who feel trapped in the system," Raspberry said.

"I feel bad we offered voters a quality plan two years ago that would have cost them pe-nuts to upgrade our road system and they rejected it," Raspberry said.

"But we need to remind them that such positive actions will greatly enhance the value of their properties," Raspberry said, despite impacting their tax costs slightly on a short count.

In the long run, such improvements will add to the value of their homes, inspire industrial and housing developers to invest in Romulus and will ultimately lead to a tax savings for the homeowners, he said.

Raspberry said he looks forward to the day when a regional grocery chain will open a store here or when another senior citizen complex is built within the city.

He also is hoping that the heavy investment of the city in the long-touted Metro World project will bear fruit and that various recreational needs will be addressed.

The city is seeking to add another golf course and we are also extremely hopeful that skating, swimming, tennis and other gym-style facilities can be added here, Raspberry said.

Raspberry also feels his fellow council members made a "wise decision," in keeping the Salvation Army Adult Rehabilitation Center facilities here, but must continue to remind Salvation Army leaders that we do not want convicted felons being treated here.

Lt. Col. Marcus Stilwell, Salvation Army Central Division commander, has promised that the existing program with the state of Michigan will be discontinued with the opening of the new facility next year.

While admitting that the city of Romulus, like many other Michigan cities, is currently in a financial crisis, Raspberry said he will leave it up to Romulus voters as to whether casino gambling should be added to the community.

Raspberry said he has worked hard in the past with state and national representatives to add senior citizen complexes to the community as well as a local post office.

While he remains very supportive of many of the projects pressed by the administration of Mayor Beverly McAnally, Raspberry said he remains concerned about rising water and tax rates.

Raspberry said he feels that he has been an instrumental part of the past history of Romulus.

He wants to be an equally strong part of its future.

Benefits planned for stricken student

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Feature Editor

He's fighting for his life, but in order to prepare for the battle, the 20-year-old man needs the proper weapons of encouragement, financial assistance and hope.

Ken Otto, son of former Westland resident Diane Otto and nephew of Westland resident Paul Giordano, is an electrical engineering student at Michigan State University. An ambitious and outgoing individual, Otto found out in March he has leukemia, chronic myelogenous.

The young man is being treated on an out-patient basis at Beaumont Hospital, according to his mother.

"Once a month he has to be seen by a doctor," Diane Otto said. "He is taking an oral form of chemotherapy. It's keeping his white blood count down."

With the assistance of oral chemotherapy, Otto feels somewhat healthy now, according to his mother, however, doctors have informed the family that a bone marrow transplant is definitely needed.

Without the transplant, Otto only has 18 months to two years to live, according to his mother.

"This type of leukemia will not go into remission," Otto said. "What we are looking for now is a bone marrow match for Ken. There is one individual in Austria who may be able to help us, but we're still waiting to hear about the blood work."

None of the family members matched Otto's bone marrow which has left them with a world-wide search that is costly.

The family is asking residents in the western Wayne County area for financial assistance by supporting various fund-raisers now being organized.

The family's health insurance covers the cost of the transplant itself for Otto and the donor, however, it doesn't cover the cost of the search for a compatible donor which is approximately $100,000, according to Otto's uncle.

"Ken is a terrific individual," Giordano said. "The family has a number of friends organizing the fund raisers. All we need now is community support."

Otto's mother said her son has a very positive attitude.

"He said he is not going to worry about anything until there is something to worry about," Otto said.

During the week of Sept. 26, residents are asked to Plant A Bulb for Ken. Tulips, daffodils and hyacinth bulbs will be on sale for $1. Anyone interested in purchasing a bulb to support the Otto family can call Eleanor at 561-6318 or 534-2903.

Bulbs can be purchased in bulk or individually. A tax-deductible donation check can also be sent to: My Friends Care BMT Fund, P.O. Box 40906, Redford, MI. 48240.

A softball tournament benefit has been scheduled for Sept. 25 at the Elmer Johnson Park. Cost is $125 per team. Proceeds from the event will go toward the bone marrow search. Call Giordano at 595-3644 for more information.

Residents can enjoy a Blues Bash benefit for Otto at D.J.'s Lounge on Michigan Avenue in Wayne from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. Oct. 9. Entertainment will feature The Pit Vipers. Cost is $5. There will be a raffle organized.

Throughout the night autographed sports memorabilia will be given away along with other prizes which have been donated by local merchants. Caricature artist Tony Ivezaj will also entertain participants.

On Oct. 29 a St. Aidan Halloween benefit for Otto has been scheduled at the MSGR. Alex J. Brunett Activity Center on Farmington Road, 1/4 mile north of Six Mile Road. Cocktails begin at 7 p.m. with a seven-course dinner starting at 8 p.m.

Prizes will be given for the best costume. Cost for this event are as follows: $30 per person, $20 for seniors, $50 per sponsor and $100 per benefactor.

Checks can be made payable to: My Friends Care-BMT Fund, "Ken Otto". For more information call Ray or Michele Schmidt at 535-8489.

ROMULUS NEWS DIGEST

Special unit wins praise

Members of the Romulus Special Services Bureau made 39 drug related arrests during the first six months of 1993, Lt. David Early, unit commander announced recently.

Early said also during that period 17 vehicles were confiscated, seven weapons were seized and $31,500 in cash was recovered.

Early said the city unit figures corresponded well with those of the Metro Street Enforcement Team (MSET) staffed by members of the Wayne, Westland, Inkster and Garden City police departments.

The MSET figures listed 38 drug-related arrests, 15 vehicles seized, 18 weapons recovered and $24,000 in cash collected.

Senior Center outlines schedule

The new fall schedule for the Romulus Senior Citizen Center will feature card playing events, ceramic classes and van trips outside the area, Marilyn Masters, center director, announced.

Each Monday at 1 p.m. ceramic classes are slated.

On Tuesdays at 11 a.m. Club No. 1 will meet and at 1 p.m. pinocle games will begin.

On Wednesdays bingo will start at 1 p.m.

On Thursdays craft classes will be conducted at 9:30 a.m. and euchre games will start at 1 p.m.

Fridays will be reserved for van trips to various out-of-the-area tourist centers, Masters said.

The first Monday of each month (from 1 to 2 p.m.) will also feature free blood pressure checks by the Community Ambulance Service.

Hayes Wheels plant honored

Hayes Wheels International manufacturing facility in Romulus has received the Chrysler Quality Excellence Award for outstanding performance in the production of steel and aluminum wheels for the 1992 model year.

The Hayes Wheels plant in Romulus produces fabricated steel wheels for the Dodge Ram van, the Jeep Cherokee and the Jeep Wrangler.

Block party being planned

City Public Works Director James Panos supported a request to temporarily close Greenview Street between Harrison and Harriet Streets from 4 to 10 p.m. on Sept. 11 so that a block party may be planned in the area.

The block request was made by Paul Estifoy and Linda Wininger. No objections were made either by city police or fire departments.

74 cars stolen from hotel area

Police Chief Fred Dansby revealed that 74 vehicle thefts were reported in the Romulus hotel area from June through August.

Dansby turned in the report following a request for such information by Mayor Beverly McAnally on Aug. 24.

Crossing gate problem reported

A letter citing citizen complaints concerning defective railroad gate operations has been sent to the Norfolk and Southern Railroad by Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally.

McAnally's letter to Trackmaster Jim McBride stated, "Over the past several occasions we have experienced a problem with crossing gates down, bells ringing and lights flashing (specifically on Shook Road) for hours at a time with no train in sight."

"This causes many problems," the mayor explained, "the most serious of which is with motorists becoming so agitated with delays that they drive through the gates."

Obscene call rate to be cut

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Obscene phone calls and other unwanted messages should soon be greatly diminished in Romulus and parts of Wayne as Caller ID and two other advanced custom calling options are now being offered to 25,000 customers here.

Caller ID service delivers the telephone number of an incoming call to a display screen that users purchase separately. "Caller ID with Name" also delivers the name associated with an incoming call, Charlene Mitchell, Michigan Bell public relations director, revealed.

"If you are waiting for a call from your spouse, boss or family doctor, you can know immediately who is calling," Mitchell said.

Caller ID service has drastically reduced obscene, harassing and prank phone calls.

The recorded numbers will only be from those calls originated within the 313 area code.

"Requests to trace the source of unwanted calls have dropped by one-fourth since we introduced Caller ID to the Detroit Metropolitan area," she said.

Michigan Bell in the past has received more than 150,000 customer complaints about unwanted calls annually, Mitchell said.

The new phone services are now available to customers in Romulus for those phone numbers that begin with 941, 942 and 955; and in Wayne for numbers starting with 397, 495 and 981.

Automatic callback and repeat dialing services also are now available to Romulus and some Wayne-area residents for the first time, Mitchell said.

Automatic callback allows customers to return a missed phone call, even if they don't know the number.

Repeat dialing dials a busy number for up to 30 minutes, freeing the caller to do other chores or even make other calls until that number is available.

Caller ID with Name is a tremendous help for persons with latchkey children, elderly parents or those who do not remember phone numbers easily, Mitchell explained. That service alone is now available to Wayne residents with the following numbers 326, 595, 721, 722, 728, 729 and 467.

Caller ID is available for $6.50 a month. An extra two dollars is charged for the name service. Automatic callback and repeat dialing is offered, at $4 each. There also is a $7.50 start up charge for the three services. That charge is waived for Romulus and Wayne residents for about two months in honor of the start-up period.

High school reopening delayed

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus Senior High School classes will begin on Monday instead of tomorrow, according to high school principal Thomas Dolan.

The interior of the school was gutted following the end of the 1992-93 school year, Dolan said, and has been entirely revamped to fit the needs of the computerized learning concepts.

Students will be furnished with new room guides on Monday to make traveling from classroom to classroom much easier, Dolan said.

Superintendent of Romulus Schools Dr. William Bedell had announced last Thursday that the high school opening would be delayed, so that the state fire marshal could make adequate tests of the school building new security system.

"The earliest the security checks could have been made was tomorrow," Bedell said, "and rather than evacuate students if some glitch was discovered at that time, we decided to postpone opening the school until Monday."

All other Romulus schools will open on time today and tomorrow, Bedell said.

Romulus firm named pacesetter

A local business will be one of the 56 pacesetters in the 1993 United Way Torch Drive.

More than 60 workers and management team members of C.J. Tower Co. of Romulus have agreed to help set the pace for businesses in the annual drive.

Frank Greco, who will help coordinate the company effort, said "United Way threw the challenge at us because of our past involvement...and we have accepted that challenge."

Greco said that C.J. Tower is owned by McGraw Hill and is located at 6730 Middlebelt Road.

The firm that moved to Romulus in 1991 serves as a customs broker and freight forwarder for many international companies.

Library remodeling bids are awaited

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Bids for an extensive municipal facilities remodeling and moving project are slated to be opened at 2 p.m. Sept. 14.

The first bid will be for the Romulus Public Library and Romulus City Hall moving and the remodeling of the Mt. Pleasant School gymnasium to temporarily house the city library operations during the renovations.

City Treasurer James Napiorkowski, one of the coordinators of the project, said a second set of bid openings also is slated for Sept. 21. Those bids will cover the asbestos abatement effort at both city-owned buildings.

The extensive abatement and remodeling project is expected to cost up to $3.5 million, Napiorkowski said.

"We have already held our pre-conferences for the bids on the Mount Pleasant gym remodeling and the moving to and from the library and city hall," Napiorkowski revealed.

The asbestos abatement pre-conferences will be set up soon with potential contractors, he said, and it is hoped that the library books and materials that will be used by the public library will be available early in October at Mount Pleasant school.

It is expected that the entire project involving the library and city hall will take about 11 months or more.

The initial library project (asbestos abatement and remodeling) will take place first and then the Romulus City Hall offices will be transferred to the library for the duration of the city hall remodeling effort.

Then Napiorkowski said, the city hall offices will be moved back and the final work on the library will be completed.

Then the library will be returned to its current site and the extra reading materials that will be stored elsewhere and be unavailable for library member use during the transition will be returned to the general membership.

Salvation Army changes donor sites

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Constant thefts of valuable donations and the dumping of garbage into Salvation Army collection boxes has forced the cancellation of the receptacle use in the Metro Detroit and western Wayne areas.

The large metal collection boxes have been used for years by the Salvation Army to allow local residents to donate clothing and other saleable items to the Christian organization thrift stores.

Capt. Roger Senn of the Romulus based Men's Rehabilitation Center said donations still can be made at the Salvation Army Wayne and Belleville Thrift Stores by bringing the donations in the rear doors.

Similar donations can be dropped off inside the front door of the Romulus Thrift Store.

Funds collected from sales at the thrift stores are used as the main financial support for the Salvation Army adult rehabilitation centers.

Lt. Col. Marcus Stilwell, commander of the Salvation Army central territory rehabilitation programs, said 450 of the drop boxes have been or will be removed from sites throughout Michigan and other midwestern states.

Thefts of donated items such as televisions and other electronic items are becoming more common, Senn said, and the dumping of items such as dead animals, used motor oil and old tires are making hauling fees extremely expensive for the Salvation Army.

Senn claims nearly $80,000 was spent last year by the Romulus based Salvation Army to haul away unsaleable garbage from the drop boxes. Stilwell claims the cost for the central states has skyrocketed to more than $1.4 million.

In western Wayne County, residents wishing to make donations of clothing, furniture etc to the Salvation Army can also call 941-5100 for donation pickups at their homes.

"We are running a little behind on our home and business pickups because of the major work the Salvation Army has been involved with 'Operation Noah'," Senn said, "but we will set pickup dates with donation callers."

"Operation Noah" is the code name of the Salvation Army project helping victims of the Mississippi River flood.

Romulus doctor loves airplanes

Dr. Camilla Kelly, who has lived in Romulus for more than three years, finds many of her patients also are city residents.

Kelly grew up in Colts Neck, N.J., but followed her childhood dream to attend the University of Michigan. She said that dream was based on the fact that she always was a Wolverine fan.

After earning her bachelor of science degree at the U of M, Kelly switched to Michigan State, where she was awarded her Doctor of Osteopathy degree.

She completed her internship and internal medicine residency at Riverside Osteopathic Hospital in Trenton.

Kelly, an internal medicine specialist, recently opened her medical practice office on Sibley Road in Riverview, along with fellow Drs. Robert Smith and Craig Kwalton.

Her practice includes internal medicine, women's health and geriatrics.

She moved to Romulus because of its convenience to the Riverside Osteopathic Hospital, where she is a staff member, and because she "loves airplanes."

'Harvest moon' brings birthdays

Sharing their September birthdays with celebrities are several local people.

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, born Sept. 21, shares his special day with actor Larry Hagman and comic Bill Murray.

Natasha Dawn Cornett of Belleville and actress Jayne Meadows share a Sept. 27 birthday, while Wayne County Community College Trustee and former Westland fire chief Ted Scott shares his Sept. 28 birthday with oldtime cowboy actor Gene Autry.

Westland Councilman Ken Mehl and actress Sophia Loren will blow out the candles on their cakes on Sept. 20, while Barbara Gower, secretary to the Westland fire chief will celebrate her Sept. 5 birthday on the same day that outlaw Jesse James and ac-

Jerry Erickson, Hazel Rich
Sept. 1 and 16

trix Raquel Welch were born. Wayne resident Libby Erickson of Covington Drive will be celebrating birthdays twice in September. Her son, Jerry Erickson, marks his 14th birthday on Sept. 1 - the same date as boxer Rocky Marciano and comedian Lily Tomlin were born. On Sept. 16, the Erickson household will celebrate the 80th birthday of Libby's mother, Hazel Rich, who was born on the same date as actress Lauren Bacall and actor Peter (Colombo) Falk.

Merrymakers turn back the clock to 16th century

On weekends, through the end of the month, visitors can continue to "explore the legend" at the 14th Annual Michigan Renaissance Festival.

Among the new attractions at the festival are free games for children, Tim the Truthful and Don Juan and Miguel, the sword-fighting duo. In addition, new artisans, craftsmen and entertainers grace the stages and marketplaces around the kingdom of Holmgrove this season.

Theme for the weekend of Sept. 11 and 12 is Music and Dance, and features Middle Eastern, Ukrainian and African dancers in addition to the music of "merry minstrels."

By royal decree, visitors should be prepared to sing long-forgotten lyrics when they play "Stump the Court." They also may try to woo the Vulgarians at Watney's Pub with poetry and prose.

On the weekend of Sept. 18 and 19, festival-goers can tap their toes to the beat of the Red Thistle Pipe Band as the event features the Highland Fling Weekend.

On Sept. 25 and 26, the final weekend of the festival, grape-stomping and wine sampling will be the focus of the Country Wine Affair.

...can be a real lifesaver.

More power to them

Every year, about this time, we have the same conversation in the news room. This exchange of dialogue is accompanied by shaking heads and a tone of bewilderment and wonder. And the conversation always ends with exactly the same remark: "Well, more power to them."

The objects of the discussion are political candidates. You know, those people who have been paying for all that literature which has been mailed to your home or placed on your door or porch. Those same individuals who have probably come knocking on your door to convince you that you ought to vote for them and that they will do a terrific job of running your city. Yep, those are the ones.

What we can't figure out is why they do it. Why, particularly in this climate, do these people continually put themselves on the line and seek public office. Who would, willingly, and for such little reward, subject themselves to the slings and arrows and extreme emotional and physical effort necessary to campaign for voters' favor?

These people have each, without a doubt, suffered insults, innuendo, rumor and public criticism. They have been defiled, gossiped about and their every action, innocent or less-than-appropriate, dissected and criticized. In some cases they have been accused of every type of misconduct short of cannibalism—and that has been hinted at.

If one candidate's signs are vandalized, surely, it must be one of those other guys. And when their signs are missing or ill used, the first one is blamed—unconditionally.

Emotions run high. These people want to win and these elections become the most important, driving force in their lives. Jobs are pushed into second place and families are used mercilessly as campaign workers. Tempers flare and any tendency toward paranoia or other signs of normal mental fatigue are exacerbated.

These people are exhausted, psychologically brutalized and broke. And they do it, many of them, over and over and over.

Why, we keep asking. As reasonably intelligent, mentally competent professional observers, we always express our wonder.

But we really do know—we just need this little exercise in cynicism as a reminder. They do it because, in this country, in this state, in this area, public office still means something. Being the mayor, a council member, a school board trustee or a township official still carries with it an aura of importance, influence and prestige that is desirable and enviable. These people want the power and influence which comes with public office. And more. They want to make a difference. They want to change things and make conditions better. They really do.

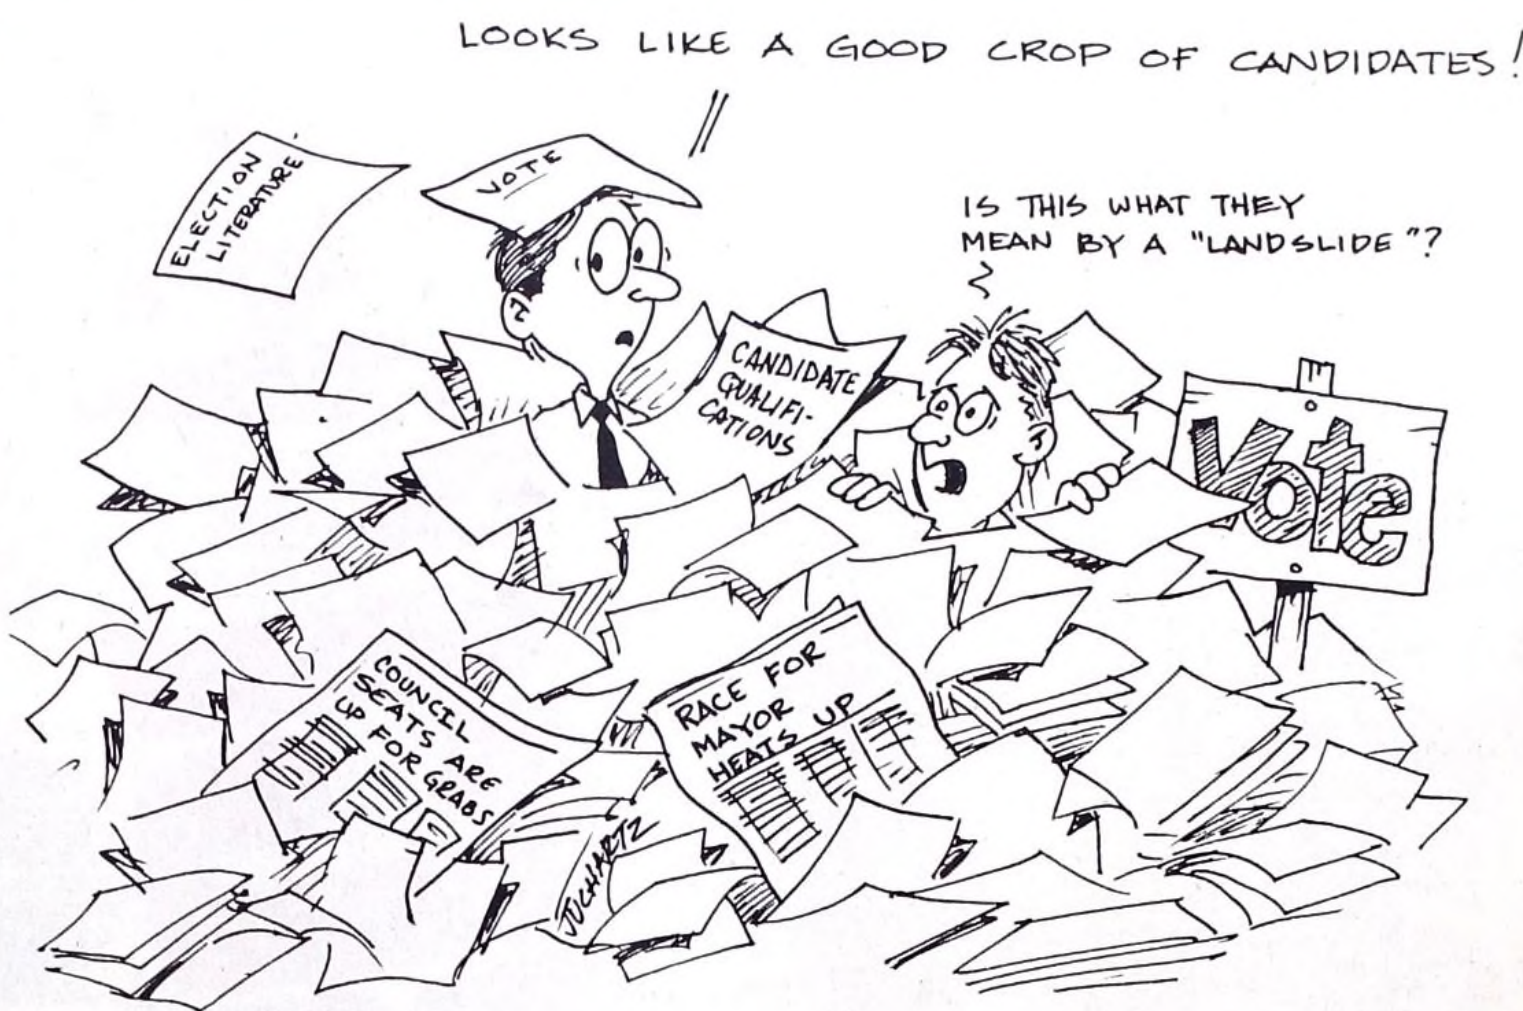

But more importantly is the price they are willing to pay. The long hours, the hard work and the innumerable problems. The responsibility, the inestimable, long, late hours and the inordinate amount of emotional and mental energy expended in public service is acceptable to these people. They are willing to pay the price for the satisfaction of public service.

Yes, we know there are those who serve for their own selfish motives and who have a private agenda. Surprisingly enough, however, those candidates rarely fool voters and are seldom elected. When they are, they are usually one-term wonders because, to quote one of our favorite politicians of all time, "You can't fool all the people all the time."

And these candidates, whether they may win or lose next week, have all demonstrated the willingness to offer themselves for public service and have made an effort to do something to improve their communities and the lives of others.

They each deserve our gratitude and our admiration for making the effort, no matter what the outcome. We're are, once again, incredibly impressed with the number and the caliber of candidates seeking office. They each have our vote of appreciation and our admiration for their efforts and their willingness to subject themselves to not only the rigors of public service but to the torture of a political campaign. And the winners of the upcoming primary elections will now face the rigors of another campaign—these were only the preliminaries to the real battle for voters' favor.

More power to them.

Lottery protest serves as example

To the editor:

Over the last several months, the House State Affairs Committee, of which I am the Democratic chair, has conducted a number of meetings on the effectiveness of the state's new Bonus Lotto game. Based on the testimony offered, information submitted to the committee, and literally hundreds of calls and letters from concerned citizens, I made the public recommendation that the game be scrapped because it is not generating the revenue to make it an efficient operation for the state, and because the increasing disapproval rate among the public which plays lottery games.

The citizenry of our state are to be thanked for their overwhelming participation in this process. That is what a representative government is all about. The people make their wishes known; their elected officials respond. Too often people think they do not make a difference, or that no one is listening to them.

It appears that our concerns have been heard and that the game may be canceled, as well it should. According to an article in The Macomb Daily, Lottery Commissioner Jerry Crandall said, "It's not doing as well as I would like it to do." As well, he stated that "Lotteries aren't an exact science. If something doesn't work, you change it or get rid of it."

I am happy to see that the process does work and that in this case, the appropriate action will be taken. Again, I am convinced that we would not have seen this step towards eliminating the Bonus Lotto game if the people most affected by it had not taken the time to voice their concerns.

I hope this success will provide encouragement for public participation on other issues of importance. What comes to mind immediately is the current debate over what is meant by a quality education which must be provided in our public schools. A special Democratic Task Force on Education will be conducting a number of public hearings across the state seeking your input on what we as a state can do to make sure our students are ready for the new and every changing workforce. Please, take the time to attend a meeting in your area, or submit your written comments to your representative or senator. This is one of the most significant reform efforts the state will undertake.

Stock market called casino

To the editor:

If you have been following the stock market lately you know that it's been setting record highs on the Dow Jones Industrials and other averages nearly every day. The stock market seems to be the only thing that's consistently going up in this sluggish and down sizing economy. What's going on here?

Why is the stock market setting all time records in a generally down economy? Conventional opinion says that it is because this is a liquidity driven market - money literally has nowhere else to go. I would argue that investing in the stock market has become a form of disinvestment in the U.S. economy as a whole. Let me explain.

What we have is a whole lot of institutions, pension funds, mutual funds, and individuals, some rich and some not so rich, who are looking for some place "new" to park their cash - someplace with "yield potential."

Why someplace new? With interest rates on bank certificates of deposit at all time record lows, and with real estate and other "hard" assets in a slump, a lot of money that used to be in these kinds of investments is out looking for "yield." This money has in effect become "homeless." Many people have concluded that the stock market is the only "logical" place to put their newly "homeless" cash.

What's wrong with that? Simply this - the stock market is nothing more than legalized gambling. The stock market does not produce anything. It's pure speculation in pieces of paper that may or may not represent the fair market value of the underlying company. It is a big casino where prices are often based on the "bigger fool" theory - which is the assumption that you can always find someone foolish enough to pay more for a stock than you paid. There is no limit on how high a stock price can be driven by "foolish" speculators. As the gullible public piles into the market with their newly homeless dollars, the brokers and speculators are having a field day.

I believe the stock market has temporarily become a "contrary indicator" of the health of the underlying economy. In other words, the higher the market goes the worse the underlying economy is for you and me. To my knowledge this has never happened before in modern times.

Our economy's general competitiveness with other global economies has made investing in the U.S. unattractive. Consider this, if you suddenly had $100,000 to aggressively invest; where would you put it in this economy? A 2 percent bank certificate of deposit? No way. Buy a farm or one of those persistently vacant commercial strip malls? A sure loser. Open a small retail store? And go into competition with Wal-Mart, Kmart, and Office Max - Not good. How about starting a small manufacturing operation - and battle the unions, the Environmental Protection Agency, and hordes of government bureaucrats whose goal it is to make your life miserable or shut you down completely?

In short "smart" money thinks it has nowhere else to go but the stock market. Our uncompetitive, high tax, low saving, economy is not a place we want to be actively involved in - so we disinvest by buying stocks. Stocks provide a different "game". The stock market is driven by a totally different dynamic. It's a hermetically sealed game with its own rules and theories for winning. The stock market has a life of its own - sort of like a crap table in Las Vegas. Occasionally the "real" economy will horn in to spoil the fun, but that only lasts a day or two - then its back to business as usual.

So beware of this stock market. Remember that stock market crashes are not announced a day in advance. This market has been ignoring the underlying economy for too long. A reality check is long overdue. There will be plenty of investment opportunities if and when a real recovery in the economy begins. For now this stock market is about as phony as the so-called recovery Washington keeps telling us we are in.

Seat belt use urged

To the editor:

At a time when people are more health conscious than ever, it might surprise you to know that 43 percent of Michigan motorists fail to wear their safety belts. That's right. Almost half the occupants in vehicles traveling our roads and highways each day do so without the protection of a safety belt.

Despite the fact that traffic crashes are the No. 1 killer of Michigan residents under age 44, Michigan has a safety belt use rate of only 57 percent.

The Michigan State Police, Office of Highway Safety Planning, has launched an aggressive campaign to increase safety belt use in our state, reminding residents that not only are safety belts required by law but they are the best protection in the event of a traffic crash. As part of the Labor Day holiday campaign, law enforcement officers will be patrolling the roads with special emphasis on issuing citations to those who aren't buckled up.

If just 10 percent more motorists buckled up every time they got in a vehicle, 33 lives would be saved each year and many more would be saved from serious injury.

Despite what some people may say, there are no good excuses for not wearing a safety belt. Safety belts work, but only when you wear them.

Citizens apologizes for past criticism

To the editor:

I'd like to apologize to the City of Wayne.

A few years ago a Free Press writer was getting reactions our recently remodeled State Wayne Theatre. When she called, I told her I thought it was a dumb idea, spending all that money to see old movies that you could rent from a video store.

Well was I wrong. There's nothing like seeing a movie on a big screen with stereo sound surrounding you. Seeing Clark Gable and Dorothy Lamour in their bloom of youth.

This past year the theater has been showing top movies, $2 a seat, $1 for seniors and children. Where can you get a deal like that? The show has been remodeled into four theaters - one used for plays. Well all I can say is "I'm impressed."

Wayne is a great place to live. City services are wonderful, the streets are always cleared of snow, the trash picked up, a cleaning machine can be seen cleaning the streets each week.

Local psychic featured on radio show offering advice

By GRETCHEN YATES
ANP Special Writer

Lynn Hazard and Paula DeLuca left their first meeting with Ray Fraser a bit puzzled. The women agreed he was a disarming man and easy to talk to. He was easy going and had a quick smile. He made them both very comfortable during the conversation, they agreed. It was only afterward they began to wonder if he really had been reading their minds.

Fraser is a psychic and the women met him at the home of a mutual friend in January for a reading. Hazard was curious about the impending sale of her home and was amazed when Fraser told her the date it would sell and that the buyers would leave behind something with a house on it. The home sold according to the predicted schedule and the real estate company which represented the new owners feature a house as the insignia on the business card, which was left behind at when the new owners completed the transaction.

DeLuca was concerned about Fraser's prediction that a boy with short hair would have an injury to the mouth. She alerted her family to watch her nephews carefully. In May, her 4 1/2-year-old niece was at school, playing with a hula hoop. She fell, hit her face and suffered a dental injury. She fit Fraser's description of the accident victim with her boyish haircut.

Fraser, a 10-year Canton Township resident, has received wide acclaim for his psychic abilities and recently made his debut as a radio psychic on WNZK, 680 AM. He offers psychic readings over the phone and on a write-in basis. He is featured at 9 p.m. each Friday.

This recognition of his special abilities hasn't always been easy, Fraser will admit. He claims he wasn't aware of any out-of-the-ordinary talent until he was 30. Now, after 18 years of what he terms "spiritual growth" he is not only comfortable with his extrasensory perceptions, but devoted to pursuing his talent.

The father of six, he was a 3M employee for 10 years, and now sells space on billboards. He has a black belt in karate which he practices on his lunch hour three or four days each week and coaches his 16-year-old son's hockey team. He is looking for a publisher for his recently completed manuscript and has another half finished.

Fraser's psychic talents were latent until he took up a deck of Tarot cards at a party many years ago and began shuffling them. He didn't know what they were, he recalled, and just began memorizing what the interpretation of certain combinations was. Later, he realized that he also knew things that weren't on the cards, he said, and friends told him to put the cards aside and let his ability guide him.

Fraser admits he was reluctant at first to go it alone, but when he did put the cards aside, he said, he was forced to realize what he was able to do.

"When I was married, I gave up all my psychic things and all of my spiritual things entirely," Fraser said. "The last reading I did in a church was a year ago in November. Giving up on spiritual activity happened so gradually over the course of 10 or 11 years, Fraser said, he didn't miss it. When he began again, however, his commitment was strong.

"Now, I'd give up everything, except my kids, before I'd give this up again, because it's become that important," he said.

Fraser was formerly associated with the Alhambra Institute in Dearborn. He is now specializing in home parties where he reads for any number of guests at a time. This year he also attended psychic fairs in Michigan and Ohio.

Being a psychic is not easy, Fraser confessed. Trying to develop a language with spiritual guides who provide him with information through symbols proves the most difficult, as the symbols are sometimes ambivalent and can mean a multitude of different things.

Destiny, Fraser said, plays a role in his theology and his readings include advice. "Keep an open mind. Things change. Act instantly. I try and tell everybody this," he said. Fraser said he is a strong believer in predetermination, and has ideas about life most people don't consider. "Usually when your life's destiny is presented to you as an opportunity, it's presented to you at a time when you're doing something that you enjoy very much. Most people will say 'I'll go do that later. I'll do it tomorrow.' But opportunity flashes like a flashbulb and then it's gone and it won't come back in your lifetime. Put down what you're doing and don't even wait," Fraser advises. Fraser began his book on this 10-minute-a-day plan and admits that eventually it became an obsession. "I read this book (now) and can't believe I wrote it, because it's good." Fraser has offered free copies of his newsletter by request to JLS, P.O. Box 871101, Canton Township, Mich. 48187. Requests for radio readings can be mailed to Ray Fraser, 118 Main Center.

Unheralded Romulus trips up title-favorite Taylor Truman

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Overlooked by most high school prognosticators, unheralded Romulus served notice via a 25-0 victory over Taylor Truman Friday night that the Eagles will be a power to contend with on the gridiron this season.

"People thought that because we had only four kids returning from last year's exceptional squad that we wouldn't be competitive," said Romulus coach Dan Henry. "The kids went out there and proved them wrong.

"I believe that we will win more than our share of games again."

Coming off of an 8-2 year, Romulus lost an excellent crop of outstanding seniors, including All-Area quarterback Bob Bergeron. However, sophomore Ryan Evans stepped in and has managed to fill the void.

"He (Evans) looked good on opening night," Henry said. "Despite the (weather) conditions, he managed to show a lot of poise."

Friday night, if you recall,

I believe that we will win more than our share of games again.

- Dan Henry
Romulus coach

wasn't the best of nights to start a season. Rains and even a tornado warning - at Ford Road and Cherry Hill in Canton Township - didn't make for the best of playing conditions.

Romulus got on the scoreboard midway in the first quarter with the help of a fumble recovered by Todd Hardrick who pounced on the loose Truman ball at the Taylor 44-yard line. Four plays later, tailback Phillip Franklin scooted 33-yards into the TT end zone for the season's first score.

Paul Onley's kick for the extra point made it a 7-0 Romulus lead.

In the same quarter, the Eagles got on the board again thanks to another Taylor turnover. A bad snap from center wound up as a Romulus possession at the Taylor 26 and two plays and a handoff from Evans to fullback James Erquhart made it a 13-0 game. Erquhart went in from the six-yard line.

Erquhart came back in the second quarter with a stunning 68-yard touchdown pulled off on the surprised Truman defense by a reverse. The Eagles went for the two-point conversion and missed, giving them a comfortable 19-0 edge at halftime.

Romulus scored its last TD in early in the fourth as sophomore safety Roy Chambers recovered a fumble at the Truman 22 yard line. Then, three plays later, freshman fullback Keith Miller crashed over the goal line for his first-ever varsity TD.

Salem shocks Tigers

It was the best of openers for Plymouth-Salem High School and the worst for the Belleville Tigers Friday night.

Salem, with a cloud of pay-to-play hanging over it in a season that was threatened to be wiped out because of money problems, shocked visiting Belleville 16-7 in the 1993 football opener for both teams.

"I felt that the key to this game was our defense and the ability to stop Truitt," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer. "We managed to keep the pressure on him."

Moshimer was referring to Belleville senior quarterback Ralph Truitt, who failed to find a receiver for any of his 10 attempted passes.

Belleville coach Bob LaPointe agreed that the Tigers' offense needs a lot of work.

"Truitt had a horrendous evening," LaPointe added, "but we also made a lot of mistakes that need to be corrected if we are to stay competitive."

Belleville will not have much time. The Tigers run up against a traditionally powerful Fordson Saturday afternoon in Dearborn.

Fordson is being groomed as the inaugural king of the Red Division of the newly-organized Mega Conference. The Tractors, however, also are coming off of an opening day loss inflicted by Detroit DePorres.

In the meantime, Salem goes after victory No. 2 Friday night at Northville. The game, a conference crossover, doesn't count in the league standings. The Colts also will be seeking their second win after upsetting South Lyon, 14-10, in their season opener.

Salem drove 48 yards in 13 plays against Belleville and scored a first-quarter touchdown as Rob Shepley went in from 6-yards out with 3:02 on the clock.

Then, quarterback Brad Lear hooked up with Shepley on a two-point conversion that was good and lifted the Rocks into the lead, 8-0.

Belleville came back in the second quarter and moved within one of catching their hosts. Josh Speller got his and the Tigers' first TD on a 9-yard trap play which culminated a 45-yard line drive.

Speller, one of the bright spots in a dreary Belleville night, piled up 77 yards on nine carries.

Salem put the game away with a last-quarter touchdown, again with Shepley finding the crease from the three. His second TD capped a 61-yard drive with 4:38 left.

Lear went in for the two-point conversion.

Shepley launched his senior year with two TDs and 61 yards in 16 carries, while teammate Brian Neal contributed 60 yards also on 16 attempts.

Truitt, although he was 0-8 in his passing game, managed to rush for 36 yards on six tries.

Westland John Glenn High School quarterback Brian Morrison (above) hands off to senior running back Tariq Horne (No.1), who scored the second of three Rocket first-quarter touchdowns against visiting Detroit Murray Wright Friday night. The Rockets were on target most of the evening as they chalked up a surprisingly easy 44-7 victory over a highly-touted Detroit team in their season opener. Coach Chuck Gordon says that he will know a lot more about his team after the Saturday encounter with Farmington Harrison. Harrison and Northville are the two pre-season favorites to win the Western Division title. ANP photo by DiVizio/chief photographer

Mega test is next Wayne's offense sputters at Adrian

Wayne Memorial High School football coach Chuck Howton warned his gridders that 1993 "would be a testing season for them."

If the first game is any indication of what's to come, the veteran coach apparently isn't wrong.

But the Zebras flunked their first test, 23-7, administered by a respected Adrian club Friday night.

The veteran Adrian defense held Wayne to a total of 50 yards rushing and, despite the heroics of Wayne freshman quarterback Lorenzo Guess, the Zebras couldn't move against the host's first unit.

Guess, the first Wayne freshman to hold down the signal-calling job for the Zebras in recent years, "played well for a first-year QB," said Howton. "He was under a lot of pressure and responded to it."

"In fact, he completed his first pass - a 12-yarder to Jason Overton."

That pass which kept a midfield sustained drive alive keyed the initial Wayne threat. However, once inside the Adrian 10, the Zebras gave up the ball on downs. The Zebras didn't manage to mount another serious threat until the closing minutes of the game.

Wayne averted the shutout late in the game when, with two minutes to go, Reggie McCarthy, raced over the Adrian goal line from 3 yards out. Aaron Bates made good on the conversion attempt.

But the game was already in the Adrian win-column.

Adrian scored in the first quarter, with 10:19 on the clock, when Chad Bilkey dashed 42 yards for a touchdown. Then, with 18 seconds remaining in the initial half, Scott Spren connected on a 14-yard field goal, making it a 10-0 ball game.

Adrian returned to the field for a third-quarter touchdown as Bilkey again scored, this time going in from 6-yards out with 2:51 remaining in the quarter. A 2-yard pass play gave Adrian the final score.

McCarthy led the Zebra ballcarriers with 40 yards in 15 attempts.

Guess, who completed five of nine passes for 64 yards, with one interception, showed that he has the maturity to get the job done. He completed four of those aeriels to Overton, who came into the game without the benefit of training camp. Overton was a member of the All-Star Lincoln Park baseball team, coached by downriver legend Ton Nolan, which won the national championship.

The next test of Wayne skill will come Friday night when they host Taylor Kennedy for their first Mega Conference test.

Gordon: 'Harrison will tell us a lot more'

While he claims that Farmington Harrison will be able to tell us a lot more about his team, Westland John Glenn High School football coach Chuck Gordon said he was surprised at the way his Rockets shot down Detroit Murray Wright Friday night.

Glenn buried the Detroiters 44-7, who were touted as one of the better teams in the Detroit Public School League this season.

"It was a good way to start a season," Gordon said, "but it was not much of test for us. I believe that we'll know a lot more this week when we play Harrison. Harrison has a great football tradition."

The Westlanders will travel to Farmington for the 1 p.m. Saturday game. Although Harrison is a crossover and non-league game because it is in the league Western Division, a Glenn victory could enhance any playoff bid.

Leaving little for speculation, the Westlanders jumped on their visitors 21-0 in the first quarter and never looked back. With senior Matt Howton displaying extraordinary running talent - he blew past the Detroiters with a kickoff return that covered 70-yards for one of two spectacular touchdowns. Howton, the son of Wayne Memorial High School head football coach Chuck Howton, also returned a punt for 40 yards and a TD.

Quarterback Brian Morrison and senior tailback Tariq Horne also shared the Glenn spotlight.

Morrison teamed up with

Derek Besco on an 8-yard TD toss for the first Rocket score of the 1993 campaign. Then, Steve Heuer booted his first of five point-after to make it a 7-0 Glenn game.

Also in the first quarter, Horne dashed 45 yards to score on a perfectly executed draw play.

The Rockets made it a 21-0 game when Morrison and Derek's twin, Bryan, combined on a 40-yard touchdown pass with Heuer getting the extra point.

In the second quarter, Glenn cashed in on safety. Jerome Cosby led the Rocket charge. His aggressiveness forced Murray-Wright quarterback William Messenger to give up a two-point safety.

And, after the kickoff, Howton grabbed the ball and raced 70-yards past would-be Detroit tacklers for his first TD of the season. He had three punt returns for TDs a year ago.

After an exchange of downs, Detroit again was forced to give up the ball via a punt and the ball sailed into Howton's arms. The young safety again took off and didn't stop until he crossed the Detroit goal line. That dash covered 40 yards.

With the score 37-0 at halftime, Gordon had an opportunity to indiscriminately substitute the rest of the way.

The Westlanders collected their final score on a 2-yard run by Stan Stevenson. Gabe Kitts booted the extra point.

Horne wound up with 12 carries and 114-yards rushing including a TD, and Morrison, who completed four of six passes for 87 yards.

Canton falls in overtime

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The opportunities were there, but Plymouth-Canton High School gridders just couldn't cash in on them against a Monroe team that pulled a 12-6 opening-day victory out of the clutches of their non-conference rival in a tense overtime period.

"We had our chances," said Canton coach Bob Khoenle, "but we just couldn't capitalize on them. With the exception of a couple of breakdowns, I felt that the defense played a pretty solid first game."

"Our offense must improve if we are going to win any games," he stressed.

Canton and Monroe exchanged first-quarter touchdowns before each team turned the game over to their defenses.

The Chiefs got on the board midway in the opening stanza as quarterback Brett Elledge found Tim Moritz for an 18-yard strike. A Canton attempt for the conversion was foiled when Monroe managed to block the attempt for the point.

board. Goins finished the evening with one TD and 170-yards on 20 attempts.

But it was backup quarterback Rob Redman who destroyed the Chiefs in the extra period. He picked out senior tight end Shawn Pitts, who caught an 8-yard TD pass, that eventually proved to be the difference.

Canton inside linebacker Tony DeGiorgio, who counted 10 solo tackles, and teammates Chris Mazur, also a linebacker, and Rich Crest, a defensive end, stood out for the Chiefs on defense.

Canton will open the home phase of the 1993 season at 7:30 p.m. Friday against North, which lost its opener 25-0 to Pontiac Northern.

"North Farmington is a strong defensive ball club," Khoenle pointed out. "We're going to have to iron out some of our kinks in order to score against them."

2nd-string Robichaud quarterback leads Bulldogs to victory

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

When senior Robichaud High School quarterback Tom Massey sprained his ankle in practice and was sidelined most of the week, Bulldog football stock plummeted.

So, Friday afternoon, coach Bob Yauck called upon junior QB Matt Alexander to fill in the slot.

Saginaw spoils Viking opener

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Inkster High School grid-ers struck too late with too little Friday night before the hometown crowd while Saginaw Buena Vista scored two first-half touchdowns and made them stand up for a 14-8 opening-day victory over the Vikings.

"We got off to a shaky start," said Inkster coach Vic Calhoun. "We recovered but unfortunately too late to pull this one out."

Calhoun said that he did see "some positive things from our team."

After we made some adjustments, I was very pleased with the way our defense played the second half. I also am confident that in the coming weeks we will be much better.

- Vic Calhoun
Inkster coach

"After we made some adjustments, I was very pleased with the way our defense played the second half. I also am confident that in the coming weeks we will be much better."

The Vikings will return to the gridiron at 4 p.m. Friday afternoon when they open the Suburban Athletic Conference season at River Rouge.

The Vikings got on the scoreboard in the third quarter when Andre Graves hauled in a pass from quarterback Anthony Holt and raced 57 yards for the TD.

Later in the period, Inkster cashed in a Saginaw turnover for a two-point safety. That score came after the Vikings blocked a Saginaw punt and Sam Wallace applied pressure on the Buena Vista QB.

Saginaw collected its first six-pointer on a 63-yard punt return in the first quarter and the visitors made it a 14-0 score in the second stanza thanks to a 20-yard TD pass.

Lawellyn Elliott got off to a fast start for the Vikings. He rushed for 95 yards on 10 carries, while Holt used the air waves effectively, connecting on 11 of 15 passes for 207 yards for 154 yards and a touchdown for his 20 attempts. Erquhart piled up 128 of the Eagles' 314 yards on the ground and also chipped in a pair of touchdowns.

Matt Ladach, a junior line-backer, stood out on defense. He accounted for eight tackles and three assists. Strong safety Chambers finished with four solos and five assists and also had an interception and a fumble recovery.

"We started four sophs and a freshman on Friday," Henry said, "and I am pleased with their efforts."

Romulus will attempt to make it two in a row Friday night when the Eagles take on Waterford Kettering at 7:30 p.m. Waterford is coming off of a 21-0 victory over Milford Lakeland.

Alexander didn't fail the coach or the team. He led the Bulldogs to a 14-0 victory over a tough Ypsilanti Lincoln in the season opener for both teams.

"It was a sloppy game," said Yauck.

And he wasn't referring only to the weather. Although it had rained most of the day making the grass, which apparently had not been cut for some time, treacherous, the Bulldog coach said that penalties erased several good opportunities to score.

Robichaud paid heavily for infractions. The Bulldogs were slapped with 12 penalties for a total of 95 yards. Lincoln was called for three infractions.

However, despite the adversity, Robichaud managed to get on the scoreboard early in the second quarter as tailback Troy Wells bulldozed over from the one with 9:43 left on the clock.

Wells' TD was set up on a 29-yard sprint by Gerald Rice who helped to orchestrate a 61-yard drive.

Massey was unavailable to kick his first of two point-after.

In the final quarter, Wells scored the insurance TD. This time he went in from the 12 with 3:59 left in the game. Wells, who had 77 yards on 12 carries, led the Bulldog ball-carriers. Rice finished with 50 yards on eight tries while Alexander completed two of six passes for 20 yards. The Bulldogs managed to pick up 154 yards rushing.

Robichaud has an open date on Friday which will give them time to heal and prepare for Ecorse, a team that snapped a 36-game losing streak Friday at the expense of Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard. Robichaud and Ecorse will open the Suburban Athletic Conference campaign a week from Friday at the Dearborn Heights high school field.

Kick off is slated for 3:30 p.m.

Disaster

Mock crisis helps train for emergency

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Scores of area journalists, elected municipal leaders and interested public safety officials gathered in the moonlight at Detroit Metro Airport last Tuesday to witness the first night-time mock disaster training session in the airport history.

Airport security teams set up a mock plane crash to occur at 10 p.m. with an accompanying fire that flashed hundreds of feet in the air symbolizing the lost fuel that occurs in such crashes.

At the same time scores of "victims" were seen sprawled on a nearby concrete runway with light green nightlights highlighting their bodies. The session was code-named Operation MADRE (Metro Airport Disaster Response Exercise).

Within minutes of the "crash" and explosion, airport fire equipment rolled to the blaze and extinguished the massive flames.

That ground action was followed quickly by a helicopter circling overhead with a huge spotlight flashing on the victims and the adjoining area.

Media representatives and other on-lookers were allowed to witness the training session that "up-front," as scores of area fire departments, hospitals and other emergency and medical teams tested out their equipment and training procedures in the near darkness.

"The sudden change in the weather caused some minor problems," Romulus Fire Chief Greenslaid explained, "as we purchased gallons and gallons of Gatorade to protect people from expected dehydration problems."

But when the temperatures dropped about 15 degrees only hours before the scheduled event, some of those volunteer victims sprawled on the ground for more than an hour became severely chilled, Greenslaid said.

"We began to get some complaints, (like) 'where's the coffee?'" Greenslaid admitted. "But I had to quickly tell them, when we purchased the Gatorade we were in 93 plus temperatures."

The drama was realistically performed by the "victims," as they awaited medical assistance from airport fire officials dressed in their silvery fire resistant uniforms and various Emergency Medical Technicians from local fire departments.

As the first victims were being carried to awaiting ambulances and other medical vehicles, the remaining voiced realistic groans and cries of "Isn't anyone going to help me?"

After the majority of victims were cared for, an "official press conference" was set up at the Wayne County Sheriff's office at the airport.

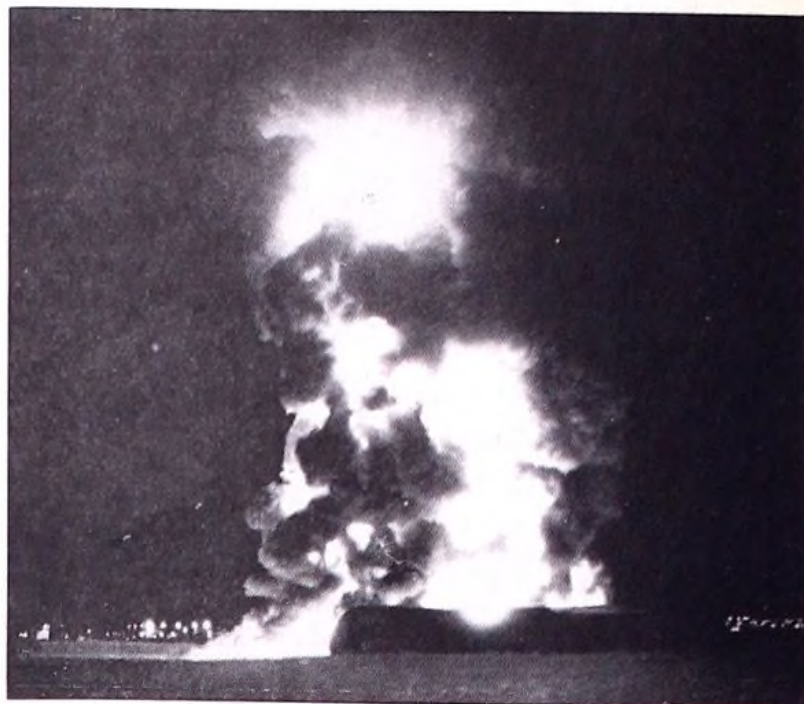

Romulus Emergency Management leader Margaret LeDuc revealed that fire department volunteers from Fire Station 2 and 4 responded to the drill, as well as two city mobile command posts.

A detailed report will be prepared this week, Greenslaid said. "One of the biggest problems observed Tuesday night was communications," he continued, "since we are on different frequencies."

The training session was broken into two phases. The nighttime phase depicting the actual "crash," fire fighting and victim assistance efforts, which was open to the press, was the first.

Phase two was called the "cold response" during which underwater search and recovery teams entered the gravel pit on Wick Road, east of Wayne Road, about 9 a.m. Wednesday reportedly looking for bodies and plane debris.

The explosion which lit up the sky surround Detroit Metropolitan Airport last week was a controlled simulation. ANP photo by DiVizio/chief photographer

Victims were authentic looking, although the blood is not real and the injuries only simulated. ANP photo by DiVizio/chief photographer

Enjoying GOOD HEALTH

Preventive medicine — the practice of "stopping a disease before it starts" — is fast becoming a respected and essential approach to medicine.

The leading killer diseases in America — cancer and heart disease — can be avoided by following three basic rules of preventive medicine...

1. Stop smoking
Smoking is the single most toxic thing anyone can do to themselves or the environment. It is the most potent health risk in the world. More than 470,000 Americans will die prematurely this year of diseases linked to smoking.

2. Take vitamins
Over the past few years, physicians have been learning more about the beneficial effects of vitamin supplements. It's been proven that taking antioxidant vitamins every day — at a quantity somewhere between the toxic dose and lower RDA dose — can lower your risk of cancer, heart disease, and several conditions related to aging.

3. Eat low-fat foods
Sticking to a low-fat diet will reduce your risk of heart disease, cancer, hypertension, diabetes, obesity, and other medical conditions. And it's not as hard as you might think. Essentially, you can eat as much food as you want — as long as your fat calories are no more than 20 percent total calories each day.

To choose foods with 20 percent or less calories from fat, check the nutrition label and follow these calculations:

Calories per serving	Fat grams equal to 20%
100	2
300	6 ...etc.

Did you know that one doughnut has the same amount of fat as 12 angel food cakes?! As you begin to learn the fat content in various foods, you'll find yourself reaching for low-fat options more often — and you'll notice a dramatic change in how you look and how you feel.

Most importantly, by following the three rules of preventive medicine, you'll live a longer, healthier life.

Body of Wayne man found on Belle Isle

By MARGO DEWEY
Deputy News Editor

Wayne police detectives are continuing their investigation of the homicide of a Wayne man whose body was discovered Sept. 4 on Belle Isle. Police are attempting to determine when the homicide actually occurred, according to Wayne police Lt. Mel Drews.

"An unidentified body was found Saturday in a wooded area on Belle Isle," Drews said. "We took a missing report in Wayne."
"A family member notified us, and we were able to identify the man as a Wayne resident."

The victim was identified as Marvin Steiner, 38. He was found wrapped in a mattress, according to Drews.

Police believe strangulation may have been the cause of death in the incident.

"He (the body) had been on Belle Isle for at least a day before being located," Drews said. "We have in custody a 25-year-old Romulus man."

A warrant was expected to be issued by the Wayne County prosecutor's office Sept. 10 for the Romulus resident, however, Drews stated a warrant would most likely be issued by Sept. 11.

Drews said it was Steiner's brother who reported him missing.

"We are still investigating this incident, and at this time that is all the information we can provide," Drews said.

Drews requested that anyone with information about the incident contact the Wayne Police Department at 721-1414.

The Wayne Eagle will have more information on the homicide Sept. 15. Detectives are continuing interviews with the victim's brother.

Quote of the Week

"Rhetoric is soon forgotten. Let's give him (Gov. John Engler) the facts in writing, so he'll have to deal with them."

Inkster Mayor Edward Blvens Jr., commenting to the Conference of Western Wayne on the importance of local communities dealing with the governor on state cutbacks.

Of Note

Voters line up at the polls Sept. 14

Voters in Belleville, Wayne and Westland will have a chance to voice their opinion 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Sept. 14 on various community issues and election races at the polls.

In Van Buren-A public safety millage is being presented to the voters. The ballot proposal asks for 3 mills in 1993, 4 mills in 1994 and 5 mills for 1995 through 2012 to fund the police and fire departments.

Revenue generated from the millage would provide $1.1 million in the first year, $1.5 million in the second year, and $2.05 million annually in the remaining 18 years of the millage.

If adopted, the current 2 mill levy, which expires this year, will be dropped.

A home with a state equalized value of $30,000 would cost its owner $90 per year or 25 cents per day for the first year of the new millage, if the Sept. 14 request is approved. The homeowner would pay $120 per year or 33 cents per day in the second year and $150 annually or 41 cents per day for the remainder of the millage term.

In Wayne-Nine candidates are in the race for four Wayne council seats Sept. 14.

Wayne voters will select the final council candidates from a field of hopefuls which includes seasoned politicians, business owners and concerned citizens.

Residents will also vote on two charter amendment proposals. Both will update the city employee retirement system benefits for non-union employees and their surviving spouses.

Police Command, firefighters and Department of Public Works (DPW) workers have already negotiated these benefits in their latest contracts, according to Wayne Police Chief John Colligan.

Council terms are expiring for Mayor Pro Tem Ed Phillips, and councilmen Pat Norton, Tom Kelly and Al Damitio.

The candidates in the race include: Darnell Cotham, Damitio, A. Haidous, Kelly, Jim Netter, Phillips, Shirley Powser, Chris Sanders and Robert Smith.

In Westland-The primary election will determine which two of the six candidates seeking the office of mayor will be on the ballot in November.

Candidates in the race include: Robert J. Thomas (current mayor), Kenneth Mehl, Douglas Noel, Charles Pickering, Kenneth Raupp and Louis Telerico.

Arraignment set for Wayne man

A Sept. 22 arraignment on information has been scheduled for a Wayne man charged with criminal sexual conduct in Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Court.

Thomas R. Grandowicz, 45, is charged with three counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct in incidents which involved a female juvenile, according to Wayne police Lt. Mel Drews.

"The three counts represent three separate occasions the individual is being charged with," Drews said.

If the defendant is found guilty of the three counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct, he could receive up to life in prison.

Long distance love Grandparents, kids bridge gap

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

While some grandparents worry about bridging the generation gap, Robert and Mildred Baker think of ways to bridge the distance gap with their grandchildren.

The Belleville couple has eight grandchildren - four in California, two in Tennessee and two in Swartz Creek, Mich., near Flint.

"We mail cookies to them, and we remember them on birthdays and holiday," said Mildred Baker. "We visit as often as possible, and they visit us. We try to keep the family as close as if we lived next door."

Their grandchildren are Natasha, 22, Robert (Bob) III, 16, Christopher, 13, and Stephanie, 10, of California; Marcus, 17, and Tara, 14, of Swartz Creek, and Elizabeth, 10, and Glenn, 6, of Tennessee, all of whom are pictured in a large frame with the saying, "Grandchildren are life's blessings."

"Glenn always liked to visit with me when his dad came to the area on a business trip from Tennessee. We'd make a batch of cookies every time he visited. Now that he's in school all day, the trips will be less

Wayne-Westland district begins 6-mill campaign

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne-Westland board of education members have begun their campaign to gain voters' approval of an Oct. 18 millage request of 6 mills.

Led by Board President Francis Winter, Vice-President Mathew McCusker and Treasurer Patricia Brown, the board has begun efforts to publicize the millage request throughout the community.

"We will focus on attracting parents who have kids in school. Many parents don't vote. We want to register anyone who's not registered," Winter said. However, Winter said board members are aware of the opposition they face.

"We know the anti-tax element is present. We know it's an uphill battle. We have faith and confidence in the parents of our district in that they want full classes restored for our kids," Winter said.

Superintendent of Wayne-Westland Schools Dr. Larry Thomas said if the millage is approved, almost all educational programs can be reinstated. "We're identifying and prioritizing them and will advertise these programs during the campaign," Thomas said.

Thomas said the programs to be reinstated may be announced as soon as Sept. 13.

"We meet with the previous board and are using their knowledge and expertise," Winter said.

School board members and volunteers did a random telephone survey of some 189 district residents asking them various questions about their feeling towards the district and a millage request.

Survey results showed some 34 percent grading the performance of the district as average with a "C." Forty percent of the sample group rated the ability of the district to manage money as poor.

However, some 58 percent said they would be in favor of another millage election. The majority, some 24 percent, said they would favor a rate of 6 mills.

Sixty-six percent of those interviewed made suggestions to the district. Parents suggested providing more information about the issues and how money is spent currently and for trustees to be honest. Non parents suggested the board manage district money better and eliminate waste.

Thomas said he felt people would respond better to a millage campaign this time because now they feel the effects of the loss of student programs.

"It will help people understand we are in a financial crisis," Thomas said.

However, Thomas said there may be some confusion due to the change in school funding under Senate Bill 1, which becomes effective the fall of 1994.

"Our job is to get out to explain it to people. We need money today to educate kids this year," Thomas said.

Winter said the millage increase, if approved, would not dramatically effect most homeowners.

"This millage will cost less than five tanks of gas in most homes," Winter said.

The board has appointed community members Mary Chames and Ted Scott as co-chairperson of the Citizens Millage Campaign.

Chames, who has co-chaired millage campaigns in the past, had four children go through the Wayne-Westland School system. Chames said she became involved in the millage campaign because, "children are important to the community, and if we don't have good schools, we don't have a good community."

Scott is employed as Director of Safety for Wayne County and is a member of Wayne County Community College Board of Trustees. He is married to a former Wayne-Westland Schools Board of Education member and current Westland City Council member Sharon Scott. Scott, who had three daughters graduate from John Glenn High School, said he became involved in the millage campaign because of, "the changes in funding for school districts and the shortage of funding for this school year for our school district. I am also greatly concerned with the long distances students have to walk because there isn't any busing available to secondary students."

Winter and Thomas said they do not plan to ask for another millage this year if the Oct. 18 request fails.

"It's a one time shot as far as I'm concerned," Winter said.

Grandparents!

Doris Bubnes

The door to Grandma's heart is always open, reads a motto at the home of a Belleville grandmother, and the saying appears to be true, according to the adults and children who were recently surveyed.

Visiting Grandma and Grandpa has been a highly anticipated trip by grandchildren throughout the ages. It is a rare person who cannot remember eating home-baked cookies in Grandmas kitchen, fishing at the pond with Grandpa or visiting the local market where penny candies and ice cream were ready for purchase by doting grandparents.

Grandparent's Day was signed into law by President Jimmy Carter in 1978, and is always observed on the Sunday following Labor Day.

The special day honoring grandparents was spearheaded by an Atlanta, Ga. grandfather, Michael Goldgar, who spent $11,000 of his own savings to promote the holiday. His efforts to promote Grandparent's Day required some 17 lobbying trips to Washington, D.C. during a seven-year period.

Grandpa motivates 2 boys

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Chris and Yohanaus King, two Romulus brothers, are proud they have a grandfather, who likes to spend time with them.

Yohanaus, 10, said Tom (Grandpa) King is just a lot of fun.

"Whether we are at his house playing basketball or with him on a small trip to the Westland Mall or Lower Huron Park, he's a lot of fun," the 10-year-old said. "He just always has time for us. He is always taking us swimming at Huron Park, shopping at one of the local malls or letting us ride in the back of his truck. We even have gone on vacation with him and visited such places as Niagara Falls."

Life with grandpa is not just all fun and games, he explained, as "Grandpa also gives me lots of good advice about school," he said.

The advice must be rather motivating, since young Yohanaus says "I plan to go to doctor school."

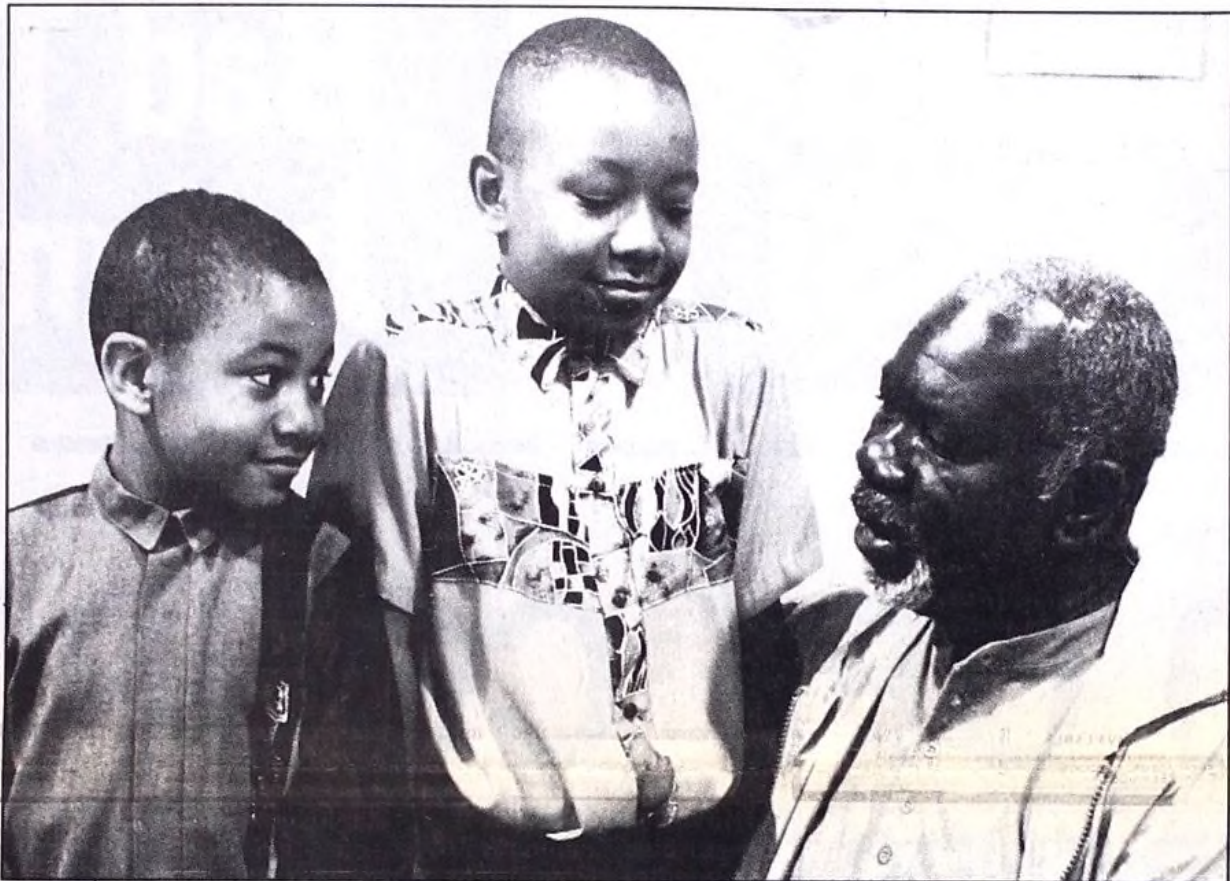

His seven-year-old brother, Chris, also finds his grandfather a great computer pal.

The King brothers invited grandpa to Wick Elementary School last year to honor his involvement in their lives.

"He really enjoyed the computer room," Chris explained, "and he liked the special card we made for him. In addition to that, grandpa also was impressed with the new school gym."

Chris said his grandfather also talks to him a great deal about school, but he hasn't decided what direction he will take in his field of studies.

"I wish everybody had a great grandpa like we have," Chris said.

Chris King, 7, and his brother, Yohanaus, 10, cast admiring glances at their grandfather, Thomas King, during a past visit to Cory Elementary School in Romulus. ANP photo by Ken Garner Shirley Donnelly of Canton Township appreciates the sentiment of Grandparents' Day today, she does not need a holiday to share quality time with her 5-year-old grandson, Jeffrey.

Donnelly sees her grandson at least three times a week, babysitting for her son and daughter-in-law. "We spend every day playing legos, learning to read and write and watching Barney," explained Donnelly. "He loves it when I read to him."

Young 'Grandpa' plays with his children

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

There are some advantages of being a young grandparent.

Ask Richard Rashad, who is a 45-year-old grandparent who also happens to be a police officer and a former football and basketball star who played for Robichaud High in the mid-1960s.

Rashad have raised six children and has two grandchildren - 3-year-old Carlo Moore and 4-year-old Kaili R. Mason.

"I am still young enough to enjoy my grandchildren," Rashad noted. "Some grandparents don't have that luxury. Heck, I take Carlo to basketball practice with me and enjoy watching him try to toss the ball around. I feel fortunate to have grandchildren when I am able to really enjoy them."

Rashad, who was an All-Area quarterback and All-state candidate when he played for Robichaud High, said the youth of today don't have the problems - it's their parents. He believes that "absentee parents" is one major reason why children today feel abandoned and get into trouble.

"Kids who have adult supervision aren't the ones who get into trouble. It's those who don't have adults in their homes that I see coming in and out of the office."

In an effort to get children off the streets and into the gym, Rashad and his colleague, Charles Hines, have organized a Police Athletic League (PAL) in the city of Inkster.

"If you can get kids involved in sports they'll have something constructive to do with their lives. Leave a kid on the street corner and you can bet he and his friends will find some way to get into trouble."

Couple brings family values to children

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

Grandparents Dorothy and Ed Weaver of Southgate try to teach their Westland grandchildren through example.

The Weavers attend church with their son and his family on a regular basis.

"We go to church with them all the time," Ed Weaver said of his grandchildren Chelsea and Caleb Weaver.

The couple also like taking their grandchildren out to eat and babysitting them.

"I enjoy all the love and attention I get from them. They're really special," Ed Weaver said.

Chelsea, 4, said she plays hide and seek, t-ball, board games and "dog doctor" with her grandparents.

"I like playing games with them," Chelsea said.

Dorothy Weaver said she enjoys playing with the children, teaching them to color and sing. Grandma Weaver said she and her husband are also helping to teach 9-month-old Caleb how to walk.

"We're helping teach Caleb how to walk without crawling,"

"I enjoy all the love and attention I get from them. They're really special."

Ed Weaver

Dorothy Weaver said.

Ed Weaver has some career hopes for his granddaughters.

"I'd like to see them go to school (college) and I'd like to see Chelsea become a veterinarian or an evangelist," Ed Weaver said.

Chelsea's father, Pastor Fredrick L. Weaver of the Church of God Abundant Life in Westland will be presenting a special grandparents day program Sunday. During the program, Weaver said the children will present their grandparents with flowers, poetry and gifts and give their grandparents a special holiday kiss.

Grandmas are special, according to kids

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

It's not that grandpas aren't important, but it seems that when youngsters are quizzed about their grandparents, it's the grandmas who are most mentioned.

Therese Antonelli, an eighth-grader at St. Anthony Academy in Belleville enjoys visiting with her grandparents and dining on their specialty - spaghetti.

"They give me lots of presents, and they take care of me when I get sick," Therese said. "I love my grandma because she accepts me whatever I do."

Therese remembered an instance when she and her cousin got into a bit of mischief and her mother disciplined her. Then, her grandmother came to her rescue and asked her mother to forget the punishment, Therese said.

"My grandma always buys stuff for me. She spoils me. She always sticks up for me, and she's really nice."

Melissa Brooks

ishment, Therese said.

"My grandma always buys stuff for me. She spoils me," said Melissa Brooks, a sixth-grader at St. Anthony Academy. "She always sticks up for me, and she's really nice."

Melissa's grandmother is Mary Cymes, the school secretary at St. Anthony Academy.

"One of the reasons that I wanted to attend school here is because of my grandmother. Sometimes, she lets me help her in the office," said Melissa, who may become a secretary when she grows up.

Melissa said having her grandmother close by during the school day does not pose any problems for her.

"I try to be good, and not get into any trouble," said said.

First-grader Angie Anderson said she loves her grandparents because they are nice.

"I like to go out on the boat with grandma," said the first-grader from St. Anthony Academy, who enjoys cruising on Belleville Lake and feeding the ducks.

"We've had a special Grandparents Day here at the school in the past, and we hope to continue it," said school secretary Mary Cymes. "Every class from the kindergarten up to the eighth grade did something special to honor their grandparents at a school assembly. We had a good attendance of grandmas and grandpas."

Youngsters enrolled in the pre-school program at the YWCA of Inkster were enthusiastic about their grandparents. Three-year-old Shaniya Dye recently spent some time with her grandmother and was eager to talk about it.

Dominique Mundy, 4, loves her grandmother because she plays with her and cooks the foods that she likes - chicken and macaroni.

Renee Crosby, 3, also enjoys her grandmother's cooking.

"She cooks sausage and biscuits and greens, and she takes me to Kmart and every store I want to go to and Arby's, too," said Renee.

Love travels cross country

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Deputy News Editor

For longtime Wayne resident Doris Bubnes the love for her grandchildren goes a great distance.

Bubnes has three grandchildren who all live in California—Jennifer Bubnes, 23, Brianne Bubnes, 13 and Andrew Bubnes, 10. She said she sees them about once a year.

"Last year I was in California with them from November to January," Bubnes said. "We went to the shows. Movies are really big out there. They also like to watch all different kinds of videos."

Bubnes said she even played Ninetendo with her grandchildren during her visit.

"I enjoy being with them, and we talk on the phone all the time," Bubnes said.

A talented craftmaker, Bubnes has won many first-place prizes at the Wayne County fair. She said she sews and knits various items for her grandchildren throughout the year.

"I've made them Christmas stockings and sweaters," Bubnes said. "They all want me to move out there to be close to them. I'm just not ready yet. I'm going to be 80 in November. Maybe I might consider it then."

for her grandchildren in 1987 with Jenna, Jeffrey's older sister. "It started out five days a week when Jenna was 8-months-old," Donnelly confirmed, "now it is only three half days a week to give Grandma a rest."

Jeffrey, also of Canton, began kindergarten this year at Miller Elementary School, but admits he would rather be with Grandma where he can play with his Ninja Turtles.

Jeffrey also appreciates Grandma for her cooking. "Grandma always cooks me my favorite spaghetti and buttered toast," he said shyly from Grandma's lap.

With a total of six grandchildren, ranging in age from 5 to 23, Donnelly admitted that she never had much time with her other grandchildren because she was working, now she has just switched occupations. "This works out well because the kids are good for me and the parents wouldn't trust their kids with anyone else. They would quit their jobs first."

While this Sunday will be just another day for Shirley Donnelly and Jeffrey to play together, Jeffrey does not need a special occasion to tell his grandma that he loves her. "She's my favorite Grandma," Jeffrey said as he looked up at her from her lap, "and I love her."

Success story
Former resident honored for video productions

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

A former Westland resident and owner of a California video and film production firm recently won two Telly Awards for video productions.

Janet Kendall, owner of Kendall Concepts in Benicia, California, received two awards from the national contest which was founded to recognize outstanding television programs and commercials.

Kendall, formerly Janet Dorow of Westland, graduated from Wayne Memorial High School in 1972 and moved to California in 1977 to begin her career in television and film production.

Kendall's video production Out of the Dark was produced for the nationwide Fighting Back Project which is working to eliminate alcohol and drug abuse. The video was produced entirely with donations from California businesses and television production companies. The video features music by Gloria Estefan and shows actors and actresses depicting people emerging from the darkness of drug and alcohol addiction.

Out of the Dark gained national attention airing in markets throughout the United States.

"I'm really proud of the success this video has met, but I'm especially proud of the way that it was produced. There were many different businesses and individuals involved in this production, and everyone who helped was willing to give everything they could to make it the best," Kendall said.

Kendall Concepts received a second Telly Award for the video production A Return to the Neighborhood, made for the Vallejo Police Department in California.

The video featured interviews with officers and citizens who discussed the new concept of community-based policing. The production includes action footage of the Former Westland resident Janet Kendall (formerly Dorow) displays the Telly Awards she won for produced by her firm. Janet now lives in the San Francisco Bay area in California where her company Concepts is located.

Vallejo police engaged in drug raids and prostitution stings to neighborhood meetings by officers with area Cub Scouts.

These two videos were chosen from over 8,000 entries contributed from production firms throughout the United States.

Other Telly Awards winners include such well-known clients as The Oprah Winfrey Show, ABC News, Warner Brothers Records, Columbia Pictures, Fox Video, Coca-Cola, Turner Broadcasting, HBO, Jim Henson Productions and many others.

"We were proud just to have been accepted by the Telly Awards, but to come away as winners in two categories was a shock. We've received awards before for our television commercials and documentaries, but this is the first time we've won for non-broadcast productions," Kendall said.

frequent," she said.

This summer, the Bakers had Stephanie as their special guest all summer, in addition to short visits from their other grandchildren.

"There's a special story about Stephanie that most people in Belleville know about," said Mildred Baker. "Before she was born, her mother was diagnosed with cancer. Her choice was to carry the baby through the eighth month to give it the best chance of survival, and she died when Stephanie was 3-1/2 months old. She was a wonderful person and a wonderful mother. Our son was left with the small baby, two boys 3-1/2 and 7 and a 12-year-old girl.

"Since that time, the children's father has worked hard to provide a home for himself and his four youngsters. All of the children have pitched in to help, especially the oldest daughter, but, at times, it became very difficult for him to work and care for the family.

"It was especially tough when the boys were in kindergarten for just half a day, and he was working. The boys stayed with us for a year when they attended kindergarten," she said. "Our son appreciated our caring for the children, but I told him, 'Thank you for letting me have them.' We never would have bonded so closely if we hadn't had the opportunity to have them stay with us."

This summer, knowing that Stephanie's older sister would soon begin her last year of college, her grandmother helped to prepare the youngster to take over more duties at home.

"She loves pumpkin pie, and so I taught her how to make one. She also likes cheesecake, so I found a simple recipe for one," Mildred

Baker said. "I let her do all of the baking, but I was a nervous wreck. I was afraid that she'd burn her arm reaching into the stove. I also showed her how much soap to use when doing laundry and gave her other household tips."

Even when the grandchildren are away, the Bakers have full lives. Bob Baker has been a Belleville firefighter for 46 years, serves as a city inspector and member of the planning commission. His wife is currently busy planning a high school reunion for the Belleville High School classes of 1943 and 1944 - the Bakers' graduating classes, and looking forward to a 50th wedding anniversary celebration next year.

Is it worth it all?

"Yes, especially when they say, 'Grandma, I love you,'" the grandmother of eight said.

MOST EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

I have a daughter that models full time, and went to Jacobson's to buy her several outfits for an upcoming commercial audition. The clothes were very expensive and one outfit was a cowboy outfit, very cute, leather skirt, hat, sequined jacket, and cowboy boots. The saleswoman asked if we wanted to look at their leather boots which started at $100.00, my daughter said, no thanks, my mom just bought me some new ones at "Big Lots" and she put her own sequins on the boots! Needless to say, the saleswoman just smiled politely at her. One of our most embarrassing moments!
